IAN MANKIN
MADE IN BRITAIN

britannia

Introducing a deep dark navy blue to Ian Mankin's classic colour palette, Britannia brings together new designs and recoloured classics to create an easily mixable collection of navy, red and neutral tones. All woven in Lancashire, the signature stripes, checks and plains come in a variety of weights and weaves from the chunky Stirling Flax and linen stripes Moffat and Troon to traditional dark navy ticking. The range, woven from natural cotton and linen fibres is suitable for upholstery, curtains, cushions and blinds.

New velvet stripes with co-ordinating plains are a feature of the collection. These have been woven in the last British velvet weaving mill and are made with super-fine combed melange dyed yarns that ensure a richness of colour and a texture that does not mark and crush like traditional velvets. The fabric has been pre-treated to pass flame retardency tests.
